FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 22, 1894.

Our neighbors of the Democratic organization, at our remarks about the "peculiar tergiversation," and says that the language was criticised was not his, but that of Snavely, of the Carlinville Register. The manner in which the paragraph appeared, and the "peculiar tergiversation" which it contained, being so much like that indulged in by our neighbor on sundry and diverse occasions, were sufficient to mislead us, and we will therefore take back the application but insist on the correctness of our position "in a general way." But what sort of an apology shall we make to "Snavely," that will offset the charge of tergiversation to his laconic feeling?

The Globe-Democrat pointedly says: "The Illinois Legislature, our special legislative report, has in contemplation the enactment of a commission to revise and harmonize the revenue laws of the State. Such action is recommended by the Governor, and is timely, for but one man in the State was ever able to fully explain the revenue system, and he died—insane. Just prior to his departure for that haven where revenue perplexities and death are conspicuously absent, he entertained gentlemen in St. Louis, and subsequently ladies at a social party, with learned discussions on revenue and Chicago tax-dodging, until they turned, with relief, to the many intricacies of the most difficult waits. Since that time no man has even approximately reached an understanding of the intent of the original bill and the distracting efforts to modify it. Revenue reform is so great a desideratum in Illinois, that the present General Assembly might even hope to fully atone for its intensely prolonged session, if it should succeed—as none of its predecessors ever did—in extending popular relief and improving the popular understanding of the State revenue system."

Mrs. MARGARET FOX KANE, one of the original spirit-rapping Fox girls, of Rochester, N. Y., who once attracted a large share of public attention, is still living, but, strange to say, she is not now a spiritualist.

DISRAELI'S first effort in parliament is thus described by one who saw and heard it: "When Mr. Disraeli got up to reply to the great Irish athlete, Daniel O'Connell, who had just sat down, he looked as collected and pleasant as a bridegroom on his nuptial day. There was a moment of intense silence highly flattering to the youthful politician. He began in easy flow of graceful elocution, and his voice was clear and strong. I looked forward to a triumphant display of his powers, when of a sudden, as if it had been concerted, as doubtless it was, a loud chorus of discordant ejaculations broke forth from the Whig and Radical members, that rose in volume and dissonance till the voice of the orator was quite drowned. He seemed in nowise disconcerted, but persistently began again and again. At last he appealed to the rest of the members, and said that as a matter of fairness, if not propriety, they ought to allow him to proceed, at least till he gave cause for interruption, and that nothing would induce him to take part in treating any honorable gentleman in the manner in which he was treated. He saw at last that it was useless to struggle against the uproar, which was only increased by the attempt to silence the Tory side of the house to sustain him, so gathering himself up to his full height, with his eyes emitting fierce flashes of indignation, and in a voice of proud defiance, he exclaimed, as he brandished his right arm, 'Though I sit down now, the time will come when you will hear me!'

HEALTH AND HAPPINESS.
It seems strange that anyone who suffers from the many discomforts brought on by an impure condition of the blood, when SCOTT'S BLOOD AND LIVER PILLS will not only perfect health to the physical organization, but it is indeed a strengthening, purifying, pleasant to take, and has proven itself to be the best blood purifier ever discovered, effectually curing Scrofula, Syphilis, Rheumatism, Weakness of the Kidneys, all Nervous Disorders and Debility. It corrects indigestion, it makes the old feel young, and the young feel strong; and will invariably drive out of the system the many life-threatening humors that are the cause of all the ailments that afflict the human race. It is a health-giver, for it acts like a charm, especially when the complaint is of an exanthematic nature, having a tendency to lessen the natural vigor of the brain and nervous system. Decatur Weekly

TRAITORS IN THE REAR.

New York Tribune.

The late Zachariah Chandler, in common with many other persons, had a poor opinion of Mr. Jacob Thompson, President Buchanan's defaulting Secretary of the Interior. Mr. Thompson's record in that position alone was sufficient to justify the least favorable judgment of his character, but the publication of the letter we print to-day was necessary to a full understanding of the moral baseness of the man. The portrait is drawn by his own hand, so that there can be no mistakes in the lines.

But Mr. Thompson's letter from Canada to Secretary Benjamin, of the Confederate Government, fulfills a much more important function in disclosing the extraordinary efforts made by him and his Northern allies to embarrass the Union cause, and to depole the Northern people at home, and to depole the Union armies. It tells more of these things than any of the former letters in this remarkable series has told. One fact which strikes the reader at once is that Mr. Thompson was well supplied with money. An uprising of the "Sons of Liberty" had been arranged, and peace meetings to precede it and create a peace sentiment had been arranged at Peoria, and at Springfield, Ill., and Chicago. The expense of the peace meeting at Peoria, in July, 1864, it may interest the citizens of that place to know, were paid by the Confederate Government through Mr. Thompson. A Confederate agent was sent to New York with $100,000 to carry out a plan for draining the country of gold, only a part of the amount being used, however. Mr. Thompson speaks of having $630,000 in all. A gentleman engaged in the business of burning boats for the Confederacy received $2,000, and a man in Cincinnati was also given money "to organize a corps for the purpose of incendiaryism in that city," coolly says Mr. Thompson. Indeed, the calmness with which he discusses throughout plots for the burning of cities would do credit to a professional assassin. "Having nothing else on hand," a Col. Martin "expressed a wish to organize a corps to burn New York city." The attempt was a failure, and Mr. Thompson deprecates at length reliance on Greek fire in burning cities. But he still regards incendiaryism as an important part of the Confederate policy. The organization known as the "Sons of Liberty," after making a promising show of strength, had become demoralized, and was being replaced by a new order known as that of the "Star." But it was Mr. Thompson's wise conclusion that all dependence on Northern organizations must be abandoned, and a different policy adopted. "Burn whenever it is practicable, and thus make the men of property feel their insecurity and tire them out with the war." Also to compel the Government to keep a guard on the railroads, thus depleting the armies in the field. Also induce Union soldiers to desert, and of this plan Mr. Thompson had higher hopes than any other.

There is much other interesting detail in this letter. Perhaps the most suggestive statement in the whole is this: "I have so many papers in my possession which in the hands of the enemy would utterly ruin and destroy very many of the prominent men in the North, that a due sense of obligation to them will force on me the extreme caution in my movements." How many Democratic leaders will read that paragraph with the guilty consciousness that they were among the number.

RECOGNITION OF JOB
Mrs. Ogden, N. Division street, Buffalo, says: "I cannot be too thankful that I was induced to try your Spring Broomage. At one time I should never be able to get out again. I seemed to be a second job without my patient, my face and body were one vast collection of boils and pimples; since taking one bottle of your Spring Broomage I am quite cured, all eruptions have disappeared and I feel better than I have for a long time. Price: $1.00, and trial bottles to cents." 19

A Carolina Family to Be Proud of.

Washington, D. C., April 14.

Some county, the Kingston Journal says, has an aged couple; the husband is 95 and the wife 84. They have been living together 65 years. A friend, writing us from Danbury, Stokes county, gives us an instance that so far outstrips the Journal's Jones county couple that we are constrained to place it on record as our Stokes county veteran. He says: "The heads of the family with which I am boarding, Mr. Mabe's, are respectively 90 and 89 years of age, and are the parents of twelve children. The family is a prolific one. The number of children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren foot up a grand total of 207, of whom there are 183 living and 24 dead. They are all Republicans."

Disraeli's Personal Appearance.

"Let me describe him," says Towle, "as he appeared at the age of fifty-seven. The first impression was of his wonderful youthfulness. At the distance where he sat from the speaker's gallery, he looked scarcely more than thirty, and his attire served to confirm the impression. A black coat, buttoned tightly at the waist; an immaculate shirt bosom; a carefully-tied neck tie; large, light-gray trousers, cut in the nick of fashion, hair glossy black and curly, betraying the scrupulous care with which each particular curl must have been arranged in its place, large, rather dreamy, and indifferent black eyes, a thick, heavy, Jewish nose; a large mouth, with thick, colorless lips; a longish chin, covered with a tuft of gray-black beard, a sallow complexion, almost deathly sallow, a strong, well-knit, rather high-shouldered figure; these were the external features that attracted the cursory glance of the eye."

Military and Ladies' Furnishing Goods
The Cheapest Store in this Section.

The following reference to the firm named is taken from the Western Trade Journal, published at St. Louis:

Prominent and foremost among the houses of note that you are acquainted with, and which have established a reputation for the leading and largest house in the western section devoted to military and ladies' furnishing goods. This house, although only established a few months ago, has numbers among its patrons the life of Macon county, and is a household name in the business world. Its location is in every particular, to correctly give the impression of a competent, reliable, and successful business. As it is one of the most elegant we have seen in our series of travels through the country, within the other limit it is full and well-stocked. This firm, in season, employ six skilled milliners, and have secured a large and complete stock of the latest styles of hats, and a superior in her line, and whose skill in trimming hats and bonnets is regarded as of the highest degree of excellence. They always purchase from the most direct, occupy an eligible location in a three-story building, 300 feet in length, and have each line of goods carefully arranged, the building being well lighted to allow of a minute inspection of all the goods. They make no misrepresentations, in order to sell goods, we unhesitatingly recommend them to all along the Wabash Railway.

Terrible Railroad Accident.

WASHINGTON DOTS.

CLINTON, IOWA, April 21.—At 5 o'clock this morning, as the night express train on the Rock Island Division of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railway was moving at ordinary rate of speed across the trestle-work over the Mercedosa river, one mile south of Albany, Ill., the trestle gave way and the train, without warning, was suddenly precipitated into the river. The train, composed of the engine, tender, baggage car, passenger car and sleeping coach—all went down, except the sleeping coach, which hung over the end of the bridge at an angle of 45 degrees, the upper end high in the air. Two cars floated off down the stream. The passenger coach lodged against an island forty rods away. The baggage car stuck in the middle of the stream, about the same distance. Only the roofs of the two cars are now in sight.

Engineer West and the fireman (name not learned), residing at Freeport, went down in the cab. Nothing has been seen of the locomotive or men.

Baggage man Sam Flanagan, brakeman Harry Meyers, Messenger Dan Ellithorpe, Conductor Thomas Fuller, all escaped, the latter without injury. All the rest are more or less injured. The brakeman's collar-bone is broken. How they escaped is a miracle.

Eleven passengers were in the forward coach, including a man and boy residing at Pine River, Wis., en route to Omaha; a woman and two children got on at Savanna for Rock Island; Dr. D. W. Lundy, a prominent, highly-esteemed and widely-known physician of Albany, and five others, names, residence and destination not known. Of these, two men jumped ashore as the floating car passed the abutment of the wagon bridge which went out yesterday. Another man leaped, but fell back and was drowned. The woman and one child, and the boy from Pine River, were taken off the roof of the car after it had lodged at the island, having escaped miraculously.

The other six passengers, including the man from Pine River, the little child of the lady and Dr. D. Lundy, were drowned. These, together with the engineer and fireman, make eight lives lost in all.

Only six passengers were in the sleeping coach. They, together with W. L. Thomas, the colored porter, all climbed out the rear end, and escaped uninjured. The names of the three who escaped in this coach are H. W. Gordon, of Rochester, N. Y.; G. W. Chapman, of Newark, N. J.; Henry Warren, of Boston, traveling companion of a man named P. C. Butler, who was not on the train.

The wounded men were made comfortable at the hotel. The lady is prostrated by the shock, and is at the house of a farmer.

The river is a perfect torrent where the trestle went out. It is said a freight train passed the bridge an hour or so ahead of overpassenger.

Twenty boats were at work all the forenoon in the pouring rain. The coach was explored, and the cushions and luggage taken out. No bodies were found—all were washed out. A great crowd is collecting. The disaster was at the mouth of the Mercedosa, near the Mississippi, eight miles below this city.

CHICAGO, April 21.—The flood in the city and through the northwest continues on the increase. Only four cars of stock arrived at the yards this morning, all receipts of to-day having arrived last night. The roads are compelled to use each other's tracks indiscriminately, and patch up lines of communication as best they may, for hardly a road that comes into the city from the west, north or south has a track free from water. During the night the water in the river and in the low-lying prairies rose five inches, and, contrary to expectation and precedent, is still increasing in volume and height. At Ashland avenue the bridge abutments have caved in, and the foundations of the abutments of the bridge across Canal street, Ashland avenue, have washed out, and the abutments have begun to topple. The water is within an inch of the top of the Fuller street bridge, and it is within a few inches of the bed of the Chicago and Alton railroad bridge.

LONDON, April 21.—The following is the clause in Beaconsfield's will relative to the disposition of his remains: "I desire and direct that I may be buried in the same vault in the churchyard at Hughenden, in which the remains of my late dear wife, Mary Anne Disraeli, created in her own right Viscountess Beaconsfield, were placed, and that my funeral be conducted with the same simplicity hers was."

The funeral will take place Tuesday next. Besides representatives of the foreign powers, members of parliament will be at the funeral. Representatives of every department of the civil service will also attend.

WASHINGTON, April 21.—Secretary Windom is likely to have his time all occupied in hearing appeals from decisions made by his predecessor during the past four years, regarding the rate and method of collecting the duties on various imported articles, unless he abandons his present programme. Yesterday he gave up several hours to the cotton tie and hoop-iron manufacturers, who argued against the doing of the late secretary, Mr. Sherman. Saturday the manufacturers of worsted goods are to have a hearing to urge the revocation of the ruling of Mr. Sherman affecting their interests, and they will probably be followed by the sugar men, who have taken renewed hope from the recent decision of the United States court in New York against colored sugars, and now propose to ask Secretary Windom to rescind the existing order prohibiting the importation of Demerara sugars as low grade sugars.

A Democratic senator, who has made a canvass of the senate, says that thirteen on his side of the chamber will vote against the confirmation of Judge Robertson. The speech of Senator Frye yesterday has greatly stirred up Democratic senators, and they profess to believe that Secretary Blaine promptly, and that it reflects his views. They allege that the speech will deprive the administration of the support of many Democrats in the senate in the matter of confirmations, and will in other respects increase the opposition to the administration.

The National Republican, partly owned by General Brady, has nothing to say editorially regarding the latter's forced resignation as second assistant postmaster general.

Senator Coke labored for two hours today to inform the senate in regard to the condition of Texas, and how that state had not repudiated its obligations. His speech was a dreary one, and failed even to interest his Democratic colleagues, who gave little attention to what he had to say, but retired to the cloak room.

It is the purpose of the Republicans to compel the Democrats to produce evidence to sustain their charge of a corrupt bargain with Senator Mahone or withdraw it, and in the future keep quiet.

Attorney General Mac Veagh was in the senate chamber for some time in consultation with several Democratic senators.

NEW YORK, April 21.—A Berlin correspondent says that the Czar will reside at the diminutive chateau of Gatchina, guarded by six cordons of soldiery. His majesty is never seen outside the inner circle. Anitschhoff palace, the town mansion, has been entrusted to the guardianship of 300 men of the Palowsky Guards. A Nihilist manifesto, announcing the approaching death of Alexander III., has been received by all the Russian ministers and court officials.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Secretary Blaine has sent a letter to Mayor Grace, saying the department of state has information of the expected arrival at this port shortly of Baron Puttkamer, recently released from prison at Brazil, after five or six years' confinement, in connection with attempted robbery and assassination. He was to have been shipped from Rio de Janeiro, March 15, as a member of the crew of the British steamship Oregon, bound to New York and London, and the belief is the baron would probably conclude to remain here if opportunity was afforded. Secretary Blaine thinks it proper he be kept track of by the police. The Grecian has been out thirty-seven days.

ANNA ILL., April 21.—The conclusion has been arrived at by the asylum officials that the fire started in the attic over the new bath room. The cause is supposed to be matches ignited by pipe, which had nests of scraps of paper, etc. The remains of the unfortunate patient who was burned was to-day exhumed and buried. Kennedy Grace, the hero of the fire, is quite sick at his home in this place from the effects of his daring deed. He is receiving the attention of the hospital officials.

Valentine and Tweed.
Johnny Boguet in New York Tribune: When William M. Tweed was undergoing his last confinement in the Ludlow street jail, I dropped in to give him some fresh flowers one day, and remarked after some talk: "Mr. Tweed, why did you let the good clerk, Valentine, be discharged?"

Valentine and Tweed.
Tweed, the last time I saw his grave, was without a stone, a name, or any memorial, however slight; yet it was only eight years ago that we were building a monument to him.
